April 1948

1. An airfield was located on the southern border of YAROSLAVL (39°52' E/57°37' N), south of a RR line, west of the Volga River. Four large buildings, presumably hangars, were located on the northern field border. The airfield was occupied by fighters and bombers. There was very intensive flying, particularly with U-2 biplanes.

2. Comment:

According to information of August 1947 it was assumed that a bomber school was established in YAROSLAVL after the war, since very intensive day and night flying with twin-engine aircraft was observed there. Primary training with U-2s was possibly stated there in early 1948.
